

Huddle

Decide. Together.

Short description: Make plans with friends the hassle-free way.

Long description: Huddle is a fun decision-making app that helps groups plan get-togethers, the hassle-free way.

Majority rules

Take the angst out of deciding. Every vote counts. Winner takes all.

Short: You ask the questions. Your friends cast the votes.

Long: Ask questions, provide options, invite friends, chat game plan, and watch the votes roll in.

Huddle pulls in information from services you already use to help you make a decision – your contacts, your calendar, Yelp.

Instant tally

Is the dark horse in the lead? A quick glance tells all.

From your home-screen, you know the status of all your Huddles – questions, winners, what's in the lead, who's been invited, and how much time is left to vote.

Polling options

Canned. Write your own. Fed by Bing search. Lots of polling options.

Huddle integrates with Bing to show you information about your decision options; ratings, price range, maps etc. (for restaurants, movies, local, and events).

Make plans happen

Huddle lets you invite friends over email, SMS, or Facebook. From the first time you log in, see all your contacts who are already using Huddle. And you can take your decisions outside your friends group with Open Huddles.

Apply some pressure with the countdown clock. Close the Huddle after an hour, a day, or right now, to get your answers fast. Save your completed Huddles to your calendar and turn your plans in to reality.

Where to go. When to meet. Huddle lets everybody know.

Happy Huddling!

App Store description

Huddle, a Microsoft Garage project, is a new app that makes group planning and opinion-gathering a cinch.

You ask the questions. Your friends cast the votes. Where to go. When to meet. Huddle lets everybody know.

Use Huddle when you need:

- A quick yes or no count
- To find and pick a restaurant
- To agree on when to meet
- Your friend's opinion

Invite friends over email, SMS, or Facebook... Whichever way works for you.

Decide. Together.

Happy Huddling!
